WALKTHROUGH

1. What do I need to do to advance this piece of work?	Finish my induction and training, then start helping with system-related issues.
2. What do I still need to finish?	My induction and training.
3. Are there any bottlenecks or blockers to the flow of work?	Waiting for approvals from the departments before I could start.

LOGBOOK · WEEK 1 (3 to 7 August 2026)

Monday	Date: 03-August-2026
	Activity	Introduction to the IT Department
	What I did and learned	I began my workplace learning experience in the DENIS IT Department. I was introduced to the working environment and started familiarising myself with the responsibilities of the department. I learned that the IT department plays an important role in supporting employees and ensuring that workplace systems operate effectively.

Tuesday	Date: 04-August-2026
	Activity	Workplace Induction
	What I did and learned	I continued with the induction process and learned about the organisation's working procedures. I was introduced to the importance of following instructions, communicating professionally and understanding the correct channels for reporting technical problems.

Wednesday	Date: 05-August-2026
	Activity	Understanding the DENIS Environment
	What I did and learned	I started learning more about how DENIS operates, particularly the relationship between the dental department, the floor system and the IT environment. This helped me understand that technical support must consider the daily activities of the employees who use the systems.
Thursday	Date: 06-August-2026
	Activity	Learning Workplace Systems
	What I did and learned	I spent time becoming familiar with the systems used in the workplace. I observed how employees interact with these systems and how important it is for the technology to remain accessible and reliable.
Friday	Date: 07-August-2026
	Activity	Weekly Reflection
	What I did and learned	I reflected on my first week and recognised that workplace learning requires patience, observation and asking questions. Although I was still new to the environment, I was becoming more comfortable with the IT department.
